

■ NEW OWNERS: Rosemary and Jerry Ramsdale

New owners for the View

THE View from Weymouth has new owners.

The View from Weymouth and its sister titles in Bridport, Beaminster, Dorchester and Lyme Regis, have been acquired by Jerry and Rosemary Ramsdale, who also own the Mariners Hotel in Lyme Regis.

The couple, who have six children, have a holiday home in Lyme Regis and bought the Mariners in November 2007.

They have refurbished the 17th century hotel and restaurant, making it one of the most popular venues in the area.

Mr Ramsdale runs a successful magazine publishing and exhibitions company in St Albans and has other business interests, including part ownership of a fleet vehicle magazine. This is his first venture into newspaper publishing.

The View titles will continue to be run from offices in St Michael's Business Centre in Lyme Regis.

Mr Ramsdale said: "I am looking forward to working with founders Philip and Jackie Evans and their staff in developing the View group of newspapers."

"They are excellent community publications, very popular with the readers and well respected by advertisers."

"Although these are difficult times for local newspapers I believe there is an excellent future for community publications like the View."

Mr and Mrs Ramsdale have also acquired the View from Chard, View from Ilminster and View from Sid Vale titles, as well as the View Online website.

Oil power plant gets through on one vote

by Harry Walton

A GREEN energy power plant for Portland has been backed by a single vote despite 866 objections.

The proposal for a site in Portland Port near Balaclava Bay was refused planning permission in September 2009 for several reasons including lack of information about the environmental impact on residents and the surrounding area.

But applicants W4BRE, which hopes to use the plant to generate electricity for the national grid, successfully answered concerns with a variety of measures ranging from design changes including the height and number of vegetable oil tanks in the tank farm to producing a human health risk assessment.

They were detailed at a session of Weymouth and Portland planning and traffic committee held specially in Weymouth Pavilion Ocean Room.

Public objections and the general debate lasted for four hours in front of just 42 people. Expected attendance was decimated by bitter weather, but those who did attend were given special permission to put the case for absent speakers.

There were 866 objections but only 130 came from Weymouth and Portland residents.

Concerns highlighted everything from health and environmental fears to the impact on rainforests being cleared to produce palm oil which would be used in the new plant.

But planning manager

Debbie Redding warned councillors that the sustainability or otherwise of the fuel itself and its source were not material planning considerations.

The meeting was told that the new plant will include a power oil production facility capable of processing 40,000 tonnes of vegetable oil per annum which would be converted into 30,000 tonnes of power oil.

There will also be a power plant with two 8.9 MW modified marine diesel engines, a tank farm for storing the vegetable oil and a transformer to make connection to the local grid.

Once the plant goes into operation, it should generate 17.8MW of power to the national grid and provide employment for 22 members of staff.

Councillors eventually approved the power plant on a 6-5 vote subject to a variety of conditions.

These included the use of vegetable oil only, materials, air quality, a contaminated land report, flood risk measures, landscaping and storage of fuels and oils.

After the meeting chairman Councillor Peter Farrell said: "The committee carefully considered the new information that had been provided, listened to the views of the objectors and was satisfied that there was no justification in planning terms to refuse the application."

AUTHOR and life-coach, Wendy Knee, has lived in Charmouth for three and a half years after frequent holidays to the village.

Originally from Manchester, Wendy left home at 17-years-old and moved around the country as she lived an eventful life before settling in the west country in the mid 1980s.

Wendy has always had a latent desire to write and pursued her passion through local newspapers and company magazines.

Wendy qualified as a life coach six-years-ago and was inspired to publish her first book "Never Die Wondering".

Following its success Wendy set up the Charmouth Literary Festival last year with friend and fellow author Sallyann Sheridan.

WHO inspired you to start writing?

As a child I loved the classics, Thomas Hardy in particular. Other people's lives and the hardships they overcame. More recently I have enjoyed Rose Tremain and Kate Atkinson. Indian writers I love because they write with such a command of the English language for example A Fine Balance by Rohinton Mistry. I have been to India and this book has everything in it.

WHAT three books would you take to a desert island?

Music and Silence by Rose Tremain to relive the middle years around 1500; Shakespeare – because I love his plays and I think I would have all the time in the world to better understand the detail and his observation of people and a dictionary, including Thesaurus, so that I could truly explore words and their meanings.

WHO are your writing influences?

All the above authors and many more. Locally, Sallyann Sheridan, as she has been really supportive and positive. When we did the Literary Festival last year in Charmouth, meeting other authors inspired me. So many want to write and can write but don't always believe enough in themselves. They are my writing influences. If I can do it, anyone can do it.

WHAT is your favourite winter read?

Three Cups of Tea by Greg Mortenson. It is true story about an American who went to climb K2 in the mid 1990s and failed. He was taken in by local villagers as he was suffering poor health and he promised to go back and build a school for them high up in Himalayas. He did it against all the odds, no money, no backers, no road, no bridge. He overcame all obstacles.

WHAT book are you currently reading?

The Girl With the Dragon Tattoo by Stieg Larsson. It is a brilliant crime book and is the first of a trilogy. I'll definitely read the rest. It follows a family history that it is full of secrets and lies – and of course, a murder.

WHAT is the role of a life coach?

The role of a life coach is to help people get the most out of their lives, that's how I simplify it when people ask me that question.

WHAT advice would you give to people who may be struggling in the recession?

I think the first thing I'd say is stop focusing on the money because we are all obsessed with the financial situation. It really does control peoples lives and I think they're missing the point. I don't want to belittle it in any way but you have to look at the whole picture, you are a whole person and we never used to be obsessed with the money before and so to be obsessed about the money now I think is weighing people down. It's a bit like the weather at the moment, everybody is listening to the weather and nobody is going to work.

ARE there many crossovers between your writing and life coaching?

Absolutely, because the small books that I'm doing now are really because of the life coaching. I felt that it was a way in for me to produce a book, just writing about my own experiences. I am quite courageous, I have done a lot of things and I am prepared to have a go and not put my life on hold. It's not easy and I do have my moments when I've been a bit scared but I thought I'd write about it and I'd use my experiences to encourage people to not be afraid to get on and do things.

WHAT are your upcoming workshops about?

This particular series are life coaching workshops based on my book "Never die wondering" because as a result of the book people keep asking me if I'm running a workshop. The first one starts on Saturday, February 13th and I'm running two sessions in February and March and then the same in May and June.

WHO would be your three dream guests at a dinner party?

A friend and I once gave a dinner party in the 1970s, the criteria being that we would only invite people who would entertain, had intellect or were good looking. We spent a whole day cooking and had a great dinner party. I love music and Ella Fitzgerald is a favourite. I would love to know more about her early days and the wonderful jazz people she sang with. Clive James for wit and humour and of course, his brilliant writing and my glamorous friend Lynn Brunton who is naughty and has a great wit that knows no bounds.

Man exposes himself to children

SEVERAL children were frightened when a man pulled down his boxer shorts and exposed himself to them on Portland.

Police said the incident happened as three girls and a young boy were exercising horses at a quarry behind Wakeham and opposite the Pennsylvania Castle.

Sergeant Rachel Goodwin of the Weymouth and Portland Safer Neighbourhood team said: "This was a frightening experience for the children who are between eight and fifteen years of age."

The man responsible is white and in his late fifties with white hair. He was wearing a black hat and had binoculars hanging around his neck.

Sergeant Goodwin said: "This area is a particular favourite for people walking their dogs and I'd like to hear from anyone who saw this man in that area and from anyone else who recognises him from the description provided by the victims."

"This behaviour is totally unacceptable. I am determined to find this man as soon as possible and I would like the public to help me to do so."

Witnesses and anyone with information should call Dorset Police in confidence on 01305-222222 or the free and anonymous Crimestoppers line on 0800-555111.

Olympic traffic

MORE fine tuning has been carried out on the Weymouth transport package for the 2012 Olympic Games traffic regulation orders.

A meeting of Weymouth and Portland traffic committee backed proposals for a North Quay bus lane but with a revised proposal for a three space loading bay for harbour users. Vehicle class restrictions already in place on the Esplanade and Rodwell Road bus lanes will apply to the new North Quay bus lane.

This will mean that taxis, bikes and motor cycles will be permitted to use this route with the restrictions applying 24 hrs a day.

They also recommended approval for the no left turn at Boot Hill, but councillors did not go along with every proposal.

Members rejected the proposed reversal of traffic flow for the one-way system in Crescent Street although the area will be monitored.

All their recommendations must now be approved by management committee colleagues.

Seeking a new look for gardens and chalets

by Harry Walton

DEVELOPERS are being invited to come up with ideas for the redevelopment and restoration of Greenhill Gardens and chalets in Weymouth.

The whole area has been a thorn in the council's financial side for years with particular problems over chalet maintenance and the buildings' reinforced concrete structure.

Now councillors are seeking a way forward for the site, perhaps through commercial developers.

It could see tennis courts scrapped, chalets restored, improved and extended, the café relocated and outside seating, better access, disabled parking and toilets all created.

Greenhill Gardens with chalets and tennis courts were gifted to the council in 1902 with various covenants attached and objectors claimed that a scheme to provide more chalets and sell or lease them off didn't directly benefit residents and was merely a money-making exercise which was not what the gift was intended for.

But English Heritage have said they are willing in principle to help fund the chalet refurbishment project if it is likely to be unviable and if the project delivers an overall improvement to Greenhill Gardens.

If the project goes ahead and the tennis courts are scrapped then tennis provision will not suffer because of proposals for an indoor tennis facility at Wey Valley School and to enhance existing tennis facilities at Radipole Park Drive to competition standard.

A meeting of Weymouth and Portland management committee agreed several measures in principle.

These included repair and restoration of chalets to English Heritage requirements, a new café and removal of the old one, access ramps for the disabled and landscaping current tennis courts into an attractive garden area with 18 new chalets. An equal area of tennis courts would be provided elsewhere in the borough.

Members also backed talks with covenant beneficiaries to get their support and they heard that a business case proposes packaging the chalet portfolio and marketing it as a whole with a requirement to tackle restoration of the listed chalets and proposed improvements.

Such an investor could recoup capital costs and make a profit through leasing on the new and restored chalets and cafeteria.

Mariners bring back a mammoth £15,000

A TEAM of Dorset kayakers has smashed their original target to raise almost £15,000 for charity during a mammoth expedition.

Munro's Mariners, made up of 21 staff and officers from Dorset Police, including some from Weymouth, completed a 70-mile charity kayaking expedition in France - following in the fearless footsteps of Second World War commandos - in memory of Inspector Neil Munro of Dorset Police who died in 2008.

The team smashed their original target of £10,000, and presented cheques for £4,899.43 each to The Special Boat Service Association, the Neo-Natal Unit at Poole Hospital and the Dorset Police Benevolent Fund, during a ceremony in Poole.

Gill Clark, from Weymouth, is the daughter of Bill Sparks, one of the original 'Cockleshell Heroes'. Gill attended the presentation event and said: "The amount of money that they have raised is amazing."

"They did really well to complete the challenge and they will have needed to have done so much training to complete it."

"All of the hours of kayaking they had to do in those conditions, which can be treacherous, is a fantastic achievement."

The team kayaked 70 miles over four days along the Gironde and Garonne rivers in France, finishing at Blaye, near Bordeaux, on December 1st - retracing the route taken by commandos in the daring Second World War Operation Frankton against German battleships in Bordeaux harbour in December 1942.

WEST Dorset District Council's Executive Committee has approved the decision to oppose BT's plans to remove the district's public phone boxes.

Parish and town councils in West Dorset were asked to share their views on whether phone boxes in their parish are needed.

This followed BT's proposals for parishes to adopt their local phone box for £1, but the telephone equipment will be removed.

Last year West Dorset District Council, backed by the local community, opposed BT plans to remove 72 payphones in the district.

Phone boxes in rural communities can provide a reliable means of communication for young and older people, visitors and those without access to the mobile phone network.

The district council and many parish and town councils are concerned that in areas with poor mobile phone coverage, removing payphones could put lives at risk as people struggle to contact the emergency services.

For BT to be able to progress with their scheme the district council were required to withdraw its veto on removing the equipment, but to do so the district council needed to hear from parish and town councils that these phone boxes were not needed, even in emergency situations where there is poor mobile network coverage.

The district council has decided that only the phone boxes in Minterne Magna and Cheselbourne should have their equipment removed after the parish councils said they had no objections and are now considering adopting their local phone box.

The other 83 phone boxes in the district should remain with fully working equipment.

West Dorset District Council Leader Robert Gould said: "Rural facilities need to be protected, so I am pleased with the decision to continue to oppose BT's proposals to remove phone boxes from the district."

"We would like to thank the parish and town councils for their co-operation. The district council has not had the resources to make a box-by-box decision on the BT proposals, so the feedback from parish and town councils has been valuable in helping us reach our final decision."

If a parish or town council affected did not respond, then the district council has kept its objection to the removal of phone equipment from the local phone box in that area.

The district council's decision has been sent to BT and the Government's Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (DBERR). BT can appeal against the council's decision by going to the Competition Appeal Tribunal.

Letwin's pledge

WEST Dorset MP Oliver Letwin has pledged to 'do his bit' for the armed forces on the Royal British Legion website.

Mr Letwin has joined hundreds of other MPs who have made their pledge to the charity online.

The Royal British Legion's campaign website, www.timetodoyourbit.org.uk, is encouraging MPs from across the parties to make the pledge.

The website also features the charity's general election manifesto, which sets out priorities for the next Government to improve conditions for service personnel and their families, the bereaved, veterans and dependants.

Kevin Shinkwin, the Legion's Head of Public Affairs, said, "We're really grateful to Oliver Letwin for pledging to do his bit."

"The entire Armed Forces family needs the support of politicians from all parties, and our manifesto outlines practical ways the next government can help."

"We hope all the parties will give it serious consideration and that every MP and Prospective Parliamentary Candidate will pledge to do their bit."

Oliver Letwin added: "I was delighted to support The Royal British Legion. They have an important role to play in highlighting the needs of the whole Armed Forces family."

"I have pledged to do my bit and would encourage everyone to visit the website to find out how they can get involved in the campaign."

Play park at last

■ ON TOP OF THEIR GAME: Children enjoy new play facilities at The Green.

A TEN-year battle has finally seen the Westham area of Weymouth get its very own play park.

A grant from the Government's play builder scheme means that the new play park – The Green – off Corporation Road will be officially opened this Saturday by Weymouth and Portland Mayor Anne Kenwood.

There will also be other activities from free refreshments to a display by Westham's very own majorettes as well as a penalty shoot out with Weymouth football club and a chance to use all the brand new equipment.

It is all a far cry from the formerly run down area frequented by gangs and under-age drinkers.

Young people and the community as a whole decided enough was

by Harry Walton

enough and nearly 20 groups, including the county council and Syn-ergy Housing, worked with the council.

They used more than 1,800 residents' votes on the type of equipment that should be installed and the result has delighted leisure and community facilities spokesman Councillor Brendan Webster.

He said: "I am especially pleased with The Green because of the participation of local young people in determining the content. The opening will demonstrate local enthusiasm. What a great day!"

Ryan Hope, who is chairman of Westham Youth Forum said: "It has taken such a long time to create this park, and I know that the young people in the area will use it every day. Many young people were really keen to use the park even before it was open.

"Some Forum members will work with council officers to report if anyone is mistreating the equipment and I know that parents are also keen to stop any vandalism in the area."

Ward councillor Christine James said: "The opening of this long awaited facility is a fantastic example of councillors and community groups working together to achieve results. I hope that the youngsters in Westham have many happy hours using the equipment and that they take ownership and look after it."

Sand sculpting attraction for former landfill site

AN international sand sculpture exhibition and attraction is to be set up in Weymouth.

Sand sculpting has been a traditional activity in the borough since the 1920s with Weymouth's sand recognised as the best in the world for this pursuit.

It was originally introduced to Weymouth Beach some 90 years ago by Fred Darrington whose grandson, Mark Anderson, has continued and developed this specialist art form in his own right for more than 20 years.

Now councillors have backed leasing an area of the Preston Beach over-spill car park for up to three years to create the attraction subject to conditions including finance, the lease and planning consent.

Mr Anderson made a presentation supporting the scheme to Weymouth and Portland's management committee.

His business plan includes a proposal to organize the UK's first competitive sand sculpture exhibition and attraction to showcase the work of world class artists within Lodmoor Country Park for May-September 2010 and 2011 with an option on 2012.

Activities at the family attraction will include the world's best sand sculptors creating exhibits more than 16 feet high, play and learn interactive workshops, team building, corporate hospitality, community projects and refreshment outlets.

The proposed site is on former landfill with a membrane three feet down, so design for the attraction will be important.

Mr Anderson is internationally recognised for his commissions which have included a giant one of Windsor Castle for the recent resort visit by the Queen. He is also a key organiser of the world sand sculptor event in Italy, is classified as a world class master and is the winner of the World Championship Sculptors Choice awards.

Having a say on marine conservation zones

DORSET residents who use the sea for work or pleasure are being encouraged to take part in the South West's biggest ever survey of marine activity.

by Harry Walton

The Finding Sanctuary project aims to map sea use as part of a move to create Marine Conservation Zones to help ensure a healthy and productive future for the region's coasts and seas.

Details of the project were given at a special drop-in day at Weymouth Library.

Finding Sanctuary

Dorset liaison officer John Weinberg said: "Many people attended and it was a very successful day."

"We spoke to a lot of sea users who showed great interest in the project and were keen to explain how they used the sea and how they hoped it would be used in the future."

"The development of new Marine Conservation Zones could have an impact on a wide range of people whose livelihoods or leisure activities rely on our seas and coasts."

"So it's vital that future decisions are made with input from everyone involved, from fisherman, canoeists and wildlife watchers to charter boat skippers and anyone else with an interest." As well as collating information from the region's sea users, Finding Sanctuary has also set up a number of local groups to ensure that Marine Conservation Zones are created with full local participation.

The Dorset Local ■ JOHN Weinberg answers a query during the special drop-in day at Weymouth Library.

Group is represented on the regional Finding Sanctuary Steering Group which includes representatives from all south-west counties and a wide range of marine sectors. It is this Steering Group that will make recommendations for Marine Conservation Zones to the Government.

The Finding Sanctuary project's research will be used by the steering group to decide where marine conservation zones should be placed, so that they do not unnecessarily impact on how people use the sea.

New zones will be formally designated by the Secretary of State for the Environment in 2012 and will help the Government fulfil its national and international commitments to create an ecologically coherent network of marine protected areas.

Finding Sanctuary is a partnership project between a variety of groups including South West Food and Drink, the South West Wildlife Trusts, RSPB, National Trust, Natural England, JNCC and the County Councils of Cornwall, Devon, Dorset and Somerset.

Improvements to crematorium

WEYMOUTH'S ageing crematorium is to be altered, extended and improved.

The main structure, which was built in the 1930s, had extensions to

by Harry Walton

the crematorium and alterations to the memorial gardens approved last year.

Now planners have backed a revised scheme which will build a flat-roof extension on the south west side for new staff and office facilities and a relocated family room. The extension together with changes inside the building will provide an office area for four workstations, an entrance lobby, a unisex disabled toilet and shower facility for use by staff and visitors and a family room where cemetery and crematorium staff can meet with families in a quiet, comfortable space.

The family room will also be available for use as a staff meeting room away from the main activity of the building.

A meeting of Weymouth and Portland planning committee was told that the main reason for all these works was new Government legislation on mercury emissions requiring the installation of mercury abatement plant, new cremators and other equipment.

Members heard that because of this it was also proposed to build a new south east extension to house the new cremators, one old cremator remaining in use until the new ones are operational.

Extensive landscaping will see circular brick planters demolished, the crematorium road realigned, a sundial repaired and relocated, three pedestrian crossings created and an improved floral tribute area. There will also be more lawns, hedging and shrub planting.

A report to the meeting said: "One of the primary aims of the proposals is to improve pedestrian flow around the site to ensure that mourners arriving for a service are separated from those leaving a previous service."

Councillors approved the scheme subject to conditions including materials, tree protection and tree replacement.

Library guest

■ ACCLAIMED local history author Maureen Attwooll will be the guest of honour at Littlemoor Library on February 3rd to talk about Royal visits to Weymouth through the years.

Her fascinating talk will feature the famous visits of King George III who brought his bathing machines and helped transform Weymouth into a fashionable seaside resort of the day.

The event is free and takes place between 10.30am and midday.

Planning news ...

◆ A SCHEME to demolish a garage and build three self-contained flats with parking in its place has been backed by planners.

The site off Lansdowne Square in Weymouth is within a conservation area and an area of archaeological potential.

Members of Weymouth and Portland planning committee were told that the main issues related to design, the character of the conservation area, loss of trees, archaeology, highway safety and parking and a loss of amenity space.

Planning manager Debbie Redding said in a report that the principle of residential development was already established, homes having recently been approved nearby.

Two significant lime trees at the front of the site are to be retained but other trees inside will be felled, one of the conditions attached to granting the development being that replacement trees are included on site.

Members then backed the development subject to a dozen conditions ranging from windows, design and materials to landscaping, replacement trees, parking and cycle parking provision.

◆ TWO more flats are to be built on a development of 56 flats in Weymouth.

The scheme involves two detached blocks of flats with parking for 75 cars.

Both extra flats will be created at roof level on a new fourth floor.

Members of Weymouth and Portland planning committee were told that the proposal came after discussions with applicants Laishley Developemnts because they were facing "financial implications" to complete the development.

Councillors heard that building the two new units and the current 56 would be tied together with a legal agreement to ensure the whole scheme was completed.

Approval for the extra flats was delegated to officers subject to conditions including materials, design, refuse, cycle parking and landscaping.

Half way to their playground target in just three months

HARD work has seen a Chickerell group raise nearly half its £8,000 target for a new playground in barely three months.

The overall cost of the playground is likely to be around £80,000 and the Chickerell@Play community playground group has been asked to raise ten per cent of that figure.

Many fundraising events were held over the Christmas period and among cash raised was £100 in donations from the Townswomen's Guild, £500 from the sale of Chickerell 2010 calendars, badges and keyrings, £420 from a festive float and carols event and £112 from a collection at the St Mary's Church crib service.

The group's next big fundraising event is A Bit of a Posh Do which will be held at the Willowbed Hall on Saturday, January 23rd from 7.30pm.

Tickets, which are selling out fast, cost £12.50 and are available from the Chickerell Town Council offices.

■ CHICKERELL COMMUNITY PULLING TOGETHER: The Christmas float raised £420 towards the cost of a new playground.

by Harry Walton

There will be dancing to Shooter, a buffet, a cash bar and lots of fun and games.

Fundraising group

founder Julie Cleaver said: "The support from the local community, school and council has been amazing."

"After a hectic Christmas season, the people of Chickerell are really looking forward to letting their hair down at the Posh Do. It's going to be a good night!"

Family fun returns

A SATURDAY morning club for dads and their children returns by popular demand this month at Weymouth Library.

Fantastic Family Fun, which features songs, stories and craft activities, will be held between 10.30-11.30am at the library in Great George Street on Saturday, January 30th.

Events in October and November were so successful that three more sessions have been arranged to start 2010, each with a different theme.

The January 30th theme will be Winter and it will be followed by the Jungle and Wild Things on February 27th and Spring on March 27th.

Sessions have been designed especially for the under-fives and their dads but mums and other family members are welcome to come along and join in the fun too.

Families can drop in anytime during the one-hour session which is free to attend and run by the library and Mulberry Children's Centre staff.

Weymouth Library manager Marie Trevett said: "Fantastic Family Fun is a golden opportunity for dads and their children to grab some quality time together and enjoy themselves in a safe environment."

"It's also a great chance to explore what else the library has to offer, including a huge area just for children, as well as DVDs, CDs, computers, newspapers and magazines for other visitors."

The library runs half-hour Storytime sessions on Saturday mornings when Fantastic Family Fun is not on, as well as many other events and activities for all ages.

Free library service for the housebound

DORSET Library Service wants to hear from housebound Weymouth and Portland residents who would like free book deliveries to their home. The borough has a good spread of libraries with a main branch in Weymouth

by Harry Walton

town centre as well as others in Chickereil, Wyke Regis, Littlemoor and two on Portland, but for some people a trip out to pick up a book is just not possible.

The home delivery service is available thanks to a partnership between Dorset County Council's Library Service and the Women's Royal Voluntary Service (WRVS).

They were one of a number of teams jointly recognised for Team of the Year at the Volunteer Centre Dorset Awards 2009.

Books are chosen to suit the taste of individual readers while large print and talking books are available and titles can also be ordered on request.

People using the service could even be a carer for someone else because that has affected their ability to visit a library.

More than 200 dedicated volunteers already visit around 1,500 housebound people across the county but new customers and volunteers are always welcome.

Anyone interested in the service can call 01305-225000 or email dorsetlibraries@dorsetcc.gov.uk to find out more.

People can also drop into their local library to discuss the needs of a friend or family member who wants to use the service.

More information can be found in the 'Libraries for everyone' section of www.dorsetforyou.com/libraries

Problem property

A STRATEGY is being set up to deal with a problem property on Portland.

Councillors were told that 11 High Street, Fortuneswell, has been in disrepair for many years and as recently as 2007 was considered "a dangerous structure" before £10,000 worth of repairs paid for by the council as a responsible local authority reduced the threat.

Now council staff have been authorised to continue negotiations with the owner to agree a joint disposal strategy.

A planning application to build a single terraced home will also be submitted for the plot next door owned by the council, the overall plan being to market 11 High Street and the second plot as a joint scheme, the owner and the council sharing costs.

Members of Weymouth and Portland management committee were told that the semi-derelict property and its supporting scaffolding were "most unsightly" on what was the only highway route off Portland.

Packaging the two plots as a single development site openly marketed as an opportunity for private sector residential development was the best way forward, the meeting was told, and councillors approved such negotiations going ahead.

Wyke Regis PACT

MEMBERS of the Wyke Regis community are invited to attend the latest PACT (Partners and Communities) public meeting to be held at the Wyke Regis Working Mens Club, Portland Road, Weymouth at 7pm tomorrow (Thursday January 14th).

Residents with issues related to anti-social behaviour, criminal activity and/or community safety can bring these issues to the attention of the PACT panel at the meeting.

All issues raised will be considered and those voted to be of greatest concern will be subject to partner action for the next quarter, designed to reduce or minimise problems on a joint basis.

The PACT panel is made up of police, local councils, fire, housing and health services. Wherever you see the PACT logo, you can be assured that community service providers are working together in partnership, rather than any single organisation to improve communities.

The Christian Column

AS I SEE IT ...

by Geoff Treleaven

I WAS somewhat shocked when a fellow Christian said to me "It's a marvellous thing to discover you are not a Christian." I would have thought the very opposite.

We had been discussing the Billy Graham crusades and I observed that many who made a commitment to Christ included clergy. That was when he made his comment.

However, when I thought about it, he was absolutely right. Discovering you are not a Christian gives the opportunity to do something about it.

Personally, I do not like being in pain and I doubt if many do. But pain can be a blessing if it leads to diagnosing something seriously wrong for which appropriate treatment can bring healing. I am sure there is a parallel here.

It sounds unbelievable, but I did hear of a vicar who was suddenly converted by his own sermon! It was so evident that his congregation said among themselves "The vicar has been converted". Such is the power of God's word, leading to faith or faith renewed.

If it can happen to a vicar, it can happen to us. It might be a painful discovery, but if it leads to faith in Jesus Christ it will be well worth the initial discomfort!

Offenders put something back into the community

by Tom Glover

OFFENDERS in Portland have been cleaning up their acts as part of a community payback scheme.

Two large supervised groups of offenders spent the first weekend of the new year clearing rubbish from Chesil Beach at Portland as part of their unpaid community work.

Under the supervision of Graham Metcalfe, a Dorset Probation Area Community Payback Supervisor, the two groups cleared an area of beach approximately a quarter of a mile long. The rubbish was placed in bags and collected by the Weymouth and Portland Borough Council Waste Management Services.

The unpaid work is a legal requirement of the offenders' community order and can range from 40 to 300 hours.

Whilst subject to such an order, good behaviour, punctuality and hard work are ensured by experienced supervisors and unacceptable behaviour and failure to attend, results in action being taken by the offender manager with the matter being returned and dealt with by the court.

Projects are not permitted to involve work which would normally be done by paid employees and have to meet certain health and safety requirements but within these guidelines there is plenty of scope for people to choose exactly what happens in their area.

Mike Thomas, Unit Manager of the Dorset Community Payback Scheme said: "We are encouraging communities to take this opportunity to identify work that they would like to see done and to nominate their projects".

Projects can be nominated by contacting the Dorset Probation Community Payback Unit, telephone 01929 556513 or email community.payback@dorset.probation.gsi.gov.uk.

Fewer benches and more sturdy materials

by Harry Walton

STONE could be used when wood and steel benches on Preston promenade are replaced.

Many of the benches have now reached the end of their useful lives with battered wood and gaping holes in rust-covered metal legs.

Councillors have been looking at what needs to be done and a meeting of Weymouth and Portland management committee has backed a gradual reduction in the number of benches over the next five years from 42 down to 25.

This reduction will be monitored to ensure what is left is both manageable and the right amount of seating to meet future demand, so bench numbers may eventually be increased from 25.

Members also backed a phased shift to a bench design which is more financially sustainable and suitable for the "particularly harsh environment" of the site and the use of stone is one of the options being looked at.

The meeting was only too well aware of the difficult financial situation the council is currently in, so members agreed that such an approach should be within current revenue budgets and income generated through a sponsorship and/or donation scheme.

Bench costs have risen sharply, the meeting heard, and if the original 1997 installation for 42 benches cost about £19,700 then the current "unfeasible" cost would be more than double that at £42,000.

Councillors also approved original bench donors being approached with an option to take part in any future bench scheme for Preston promenade and members asked their officers to investigate mounting existing memorial bench plaques on Preston sea wall at a single designated spot.

■ RUST and salt take their toll on Preston promenade benches, some of which have gaping holes in their metal legs.

Do you recognise this clock?

POLICE are appealing to the owner of a clock to step forward after it was discovered during a raid on a Weymouth house.

Police are hoping to reunite the marble mantle clock with its rightful owner after it was found by officers who were searching flats in a house in the Rodwell area of Weymouth.

Detective Constable Georgina Guyett, of Weymouth CID, said: "The clock may be stolen and I would like to hear from owner or from anyone else who recognises the clock and who can give any information about it or about the rightful owner."

No-one has been arrested in connection with the recovery of the clock which was found in an empty and unoccupied room.

Anyone with information is asked to call police on 01202 01305 222222 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Weymouth Matters

A personal View by HARRY WALTON

■ THERE is something slightly obscene about seeing Easter cream eggs prominently displayed in Weymouth and Portland shops with the New Year barely started.

I like cream eggs but I'd also like a bit of a break from Christmas feasting before having more confectionary paraded everywhere I go.

Those whose religious beliefs are strong must also be a bit bewildered.

After all, there's nothing like celebrating the birth of Jesus on one day only to be confronted the next morning with a chocolate sweet associated with his resurrection at Easter.

If I remember my biblical quote correctly "on the third day he rose again from the dead", so if it took Jesus three days to officially triumph over death I don't feel it's asking too much for shops to let a few weeks go past celebrating Christmas before chocolate trading starts to, well, bite.

Look out all politicians!

A GENERAL election will be held in the next few months and I will be voting for the Dorset Trading Standards department.

They are not putting up a candidate but they could offer an absolutely vital lifeline to sanity.

Thirty-five years as a journalist has taught me that there isn't a single politician who lies.

They all put their party line across with dripping sincerity but, to paraphrase George Orwell, "all politicians are truthful but some are more truthful than others".

This year the whole lot of them are in for a nasty shock.

The first would-be MP to ring my front doorbell will get all my attention but not my vote.

Instead I propose that people follow my example and bundle all their staggering claims and promises into a large envelope and post it off to Trading Standards to go through them with a fine toothcomb.

No longer will it be possible for politicians to get away with casual comments such as "We are the party of the people" or "A vote for us is a vote for the future".

Instead those comments will get a sort of political quality control test and, if found wanting, then the politicians concerned will be fined.

I am confident that this approach could really benefit members of the public.

The prospect of politicians actually having to put their money where their mouth is should see a dramatic fall off in the number of party faithful banging on doors to interrupt meals, baths and key television moments.

That will leave us all a lot freer to distribute election leaflets for the Monster Come Dancing Looney Strictly Raving X Factor Party which does get my vote because it has promised not to knock on my door and ask for it.

Weymouth lost in a world of its own

FOR those of you who haven't already guessed, Weymouth is not part of the real world.

Snow closed airports, blocked roads, shut schools and paralysed almost every part of the country but people across the borough only faced flurries, a few icy streets and pavements and a bit of frost on the front lawn.

Even the briefest glance at any national news programme reveals a chilling tale of countryside blanketed in white, cars abandoned or skidding out of control and excited children on sledges or building snowmen.

Nowhere did we get exclusive coverage of people sunbathing on Weymouth Esplanade, browsing for short-sleeved shirts in the sales or overhauling their mowers for the first cut of spring.

This is hardly surprising since, while the town is chilly, it has long enjoyed a sort of "Lost World" status created by the Ridgeway which seems to protect us from the worst that winter can produce.

So all of you frustrated by the lack of snow, my daughter included, appear to be facing a long wait for festive flakes unless the massive Ridgeway cutting for Weymouth's new relief road lets a bit in.

Watch out there's a bike about

BE afraid, be very afraid because Weymouth and Portland is now in the single most dangerous period of the year.

Thousands of little Christmas bikes have been bought as presents for thousands of little Christmas children and they are all out there learning how to use them.

Rambo fighting the Terminator in the cab of a runaway ammunition lorry heading for a cliff might be more dangerous, but most of us are unlikely to get embroiled in that scenario.

However, it is very likely that we will come across beginners on bikes where we risk being stabbed by a stabilizer, pulverized by a pedal or rammed by a runaway.

The current trend seems to favour the sink or swim approach of putting the little darlings on their shiny new machine, giving them a push and a cheery wave and letting them get on with it.

But as Mum or Dad watches fondly from behind the safety of a garden gate it is unsuspecting pedestrians like myself who suddenly have a quick decision to make.

We face bug-eyed little Bob or terrified Theresa careering out of control down the pavement towards us in charge of a lethal weapon.

And as we hurl ourselves out of their path and seek safety in a pyracantha hedge we can just hear parental advice that the brake is the lever on the left.

I can't even offer ordinary people hope for the future because those same parents will later help buy their grown-up offspring a battered Subaru with a large noisy exhaust for them to learn to drive in so they can do some real damage

Helping others on the road to recovery

THE new chairman of Dorset Mental Health Forum has good reason to be interested in the work of the Dorchester-based independent charity.

Former RAF officer Hannah Walker, 53, who was brought up on the Isle of Wight and now lives in West Dorset, had a glowing service history until she suffered the first of many breakdowns in 1990.

After graduating from officer training with the sash of merit and training as a personnel officer, she had many and varied jobs in the RAF, including Royal visits officer in Germany and a member of the operational staff in the Ministry of Defence.

"I travelled widely and represented both the RAF and combined services at sailing," she said.

But after becoming ill, she was eventually diagnosed with bipolar disorder.

"It was decided I should be thrown out of the RAF under the same regulations applied to drug addicts and alcoholics and without a pension," she said. "It took me well over a year to fight that and for the RAF to admit they had made a mistake."

In the end, she was invalided out of the RAF as a squadron leader in 1991. She retrained as a psychotherapist and worked on an acute psychiatric ward for six years until, once again, she had to retire because of her mental health.

Hannah describes her road to recovery as long and hard. She is very passionate about the forum's work and it's why she is so willing to be its figurehead.

"I must have taken every tablet known to man in the hope of controlling the symptoms of my illness," she recalled. "I've had 24 admissions to psychiatric wards during the last 20 years."

"I started my life as a patient on a mixed ward with nothing to recommend about it. There was violence and quite often I didn't feel safe. The dormitories had four beds in them and there were communal baths.

"On night shifts it was very difficult to sleep and a search for a staff member was hopeless. The doctors gave orders to the nurses who gave orders to the patients, most of whom paid no attention. The buildings were grim and the food grimmer."

"The subsequent hospital I went to was very different. I was consulted about my care at every stage and helped to fill in my care plan. Staff were approachable and had time to talk."

"There were single rooms and the food was better. Now I go there with a very positive attitude that I shall get better quickly and not spend too much time away from home."

Hannah said the difference between the two units was very simple. The first practised what is called the "medical model", where, Hannah said "the psychiatrist was God and in any case one never saw him".

The second unit practised a "recovery model".

"This places patients in the centre of their care and they are looked upon as the experts when being treated," Hannah said.

"Groups of different kinds fill the days and the occupational therapy room is widely used. Staff have emerged from their hiding places and are very willing to help and to talk."

"No longer does the psychiatrist hold such power as there are more than enough people with illnesses to tell them what works best for them. I can't speak warmly enough of the recovery model and the better outcomes it produces."

What is the Dorset Mental Health Forum?

DORSET Mental Health Forum is a Dorset-wide independent charity run and led predominantly by people who have experienced mental health problems.

The forum, which is based in Durngate Street, Dorchester, employs about 40 staff and has a range of projects across Dorset and ongoing developments, funded in a number of different ways – including contracts from local statutory organisations, a grant from the Big Lottery Fund and social enterprise income.

It provides information for mental health service users and their carers, the general public and statutory services. It provides day services, an advocacy service and mental health awareness training.

Becky Aldridge, assistant services manager, said: "The forum has a clear philosophy and ethos. Service users, people with lived experience of mental health problems and recovery are at the heart of everything we do."

According to the Sainsbury Centre for Mental Health, "recovery" is defined as "a set of values about a person's right to build a meaningful life for themselves, with or without the continuing presence of mental health symptoms. Recovery is based on ideas of self-determination and self-management. It emphasizes the importance of hope in sustaining motivation and supporting expectations of an individually fulfilled life".

Said Becky: "Many of our staff are being supported along their own personal journey of recovery, having become employed by the forum at a time when other employment was not achievable for them."

"Not only have these people been able to experience flexible, understanding and supportive employment, but in some cases they have been able to utilise their own experiences to positive effect for others, which has enabled them to grow in confidence and to develop themselves."

"Another example would be how we have empowered and enabled service users to believe they will be heard and to have a voice regarding the shaping, modernising and delivery of local statutory mental health services.

"We have a growing constituency of several hundred mental health service users and people with lived experience in Dorset, with whom we regularly consult and involve in statutory service planning."

"Many people are also involved directly in influencing service provision by attending meetings and providing representative feedback, taking part in recruitment and training of statutory staff and developing forum peer-led services themselves."

For more information about the forum, go to the website at www.dorsetmentalhealthforum.org.uk.

Phil Spencer to announce best agents in the uk

Martin & Co Weymouth joins national award scheme recognising the best estate & letting agents in the country.

Martin & Co, the Weymouth based letting agent has joined the Estate & Letting Agent Awards scheme which recognises the best agents based on research conducted through homebuyers and sellers around the country.

The scheme measures the quality of customer service provided by agents through the Homebuying, selling and letting process, (or management process in the case of landlords).

Phil Spencer, presenter of Channel 4's Location, Location property programme says "I've been involved with the scheme for 6 years now and absolutely believe it to be the most relevant in the current market. The fact that customers are the judges and they determine the winners makes the awards unique. The customers are the ones who experience the service levels of the agents on a daily basis, so they are in a unique position to assess their performance."

Any agent that registers for the scheme is making a public pledge that they are focused on providing the best possible service to their clients whether they are buying, selling or renting through the agent says Simon Brown, Managing Director of Awards For Business who run the national scheme. In a difficult market customers need to be certain agents are working their hardest to earn their fees.

David James, Manager of Martin & Co Weymouth said "We take our levels of customer service very seriously because we know clients have a choice. We have always been very proud of the personal service we provide and this is great way to demonstrate how good we really are."

The national scheme is backed by the Royal Institute of Chartered Surveyors (RICS). David Dalby, Residential Director at RICS, said "This is the fifth year that RICS have been involved with the awards, which we support because the results are based solely on customer satisfaction rather than the opinions of a judging panel."

To win an Estate or Letting Agent of the Year Award, a firm has to demonstrate a consistently high level of service and, to achieve this, they must ensure that staff follow those standards of efficiency, good communication and transparency that differentiate the exceptional agent from the ordinary one.

IT'S PANTO TIME – OH YES IT IS!

Bridport Pantomime Players return with Jack and the Beanstalk

AFTER their successful adventures on the high seas with Sinbad the Sailor, the Bridport Pantomime Players are now safely back on shore with JACK AND THE BEANSTALK and contentedly living in Serenia, a happy care-free community ruled by King Hubert (Sue Farrant).

But trouble is just around the corner! Rancid (Jamie Isaacs), a somewhat unpleasant person, the sort of person you want to boo and hiss, has been sent by the wicked Giant Blunderbore (Tom Staple) to take over Serenia.

Dame Trot (Steve Light) a hard-working widow, has two sons – Jack our hero (Teresa Grinter) and Simple Simon (Jess Ives) and runs the local dairy with a bit of help from Daisy the Cow (front half John Day: back half Tony Glover).

Jack is in love with the King's daughter, Princess Melissa (Emily Deer), but can't afford to marry her; Dame Trot can't afford to pay the rent, and the King's crown gets stolen! Daisy the Cow has to be sold to pay the rent, the Princess is kidnapped and both are transported to the wicked Giant's domain, where Cookie (Sarah Light) a kindly soul, takes care of them both.

With magical help from Fairy Thistledown (Helen Light) good wins over evil – as it does in all the best pantomimes! The two villagers are Gill Nunn and Sarah Pitcher, and together with the chorus, this pantomime will be full of traditional fun and laughter.

Jack and the Beanstalk will be on stage at The Electric Palace in January from Tuesday 26th – Saturday 30th with a matinee on the Thursday and Saturday. The Box Office is at Pets' Pavilion, South Street, from Monday, January 4th. Open from 10.00am – 4pm daily, but closes at 12 noon on Saturday.

Briton to lead Kia's European sales push

KIA MOTORS Europe has announced the appointment of Bernard Bradley as Vice President Sales, as the company continues to add new resources and strength to its sales organisation in Europe.

A 42-year old Briton, Bradley brings a wealth of motor industry knowledge to his new role at Kia stretching over almost two decades in the business. Over the past 19 years he has gained experience in selling through multiple distribution channels, in key roles at Vauxhall, Volkswagen, Volvo, BMW and most recently as General Manager-Cars at Honda UK, where he headed the car business across all functions.

During his tenure at Honda UK he was acknowledged for his role in driving growth, leading and managing change. In 2008 he was named as the 2006 winner in the 'Rising Stars' sales awards by the leading automotive trade publication, Automotive Management.

Taking over his new position in Frankfurt from 1 January 2010, Bradley will report to Paul Philpott, COO of KME.

Announcing the appointment, Paul Philpott commented: "As a powerful and dynamic European team, we are quickly making progress in creating a strong organization, leveraging and adding new resources in our region. Given the importance of a strong sales organization in achieving our key objectives, we are delighted to welcome Bernard to this new role. KME will benefit greatly from his unrivalled, thorough and in-depth sales leadership skills

Dynamic next-generation Ford Focus debuts

■ Next-generation Ford Focus makes its worldwide debut at 2010 North American International Auto Show (NAIAS) in Detroit.

■ Focus spearheads Ford's new generation of global C-cars, all based on a common platform that will underpin up to 10 vehicles around the world and account for two million units of annual production by 2012.

■ Stylish new range provides customers with class-leading new technologies, features and craftsmanship.

■ New Focus targets exceptional fuel economy, and advances acclaimed levels of driving quality.

■ New range will start production simultaneously in Europe and North America in late 2010 and go on sale early in 2011.

THE next-generation Ford Focus makes its worldwide debut today at the North American International Auto Show (NAIAS) in Detroit, providing customers with more affordable technologies and features than ever in this segment, as well as detailed craftsmanship, outstanding fuel economy and a new standard for driving quality.

Both the four-door saloon and five-door hatchback body styles of the next-generation Focus are previewed prior to their production start for Europe and North America late in 2010 and market launch early in 2011.

Production of the next-generation Ford Focus will begin simultaneously in Europe and North America in late 2010, with individual market launches starting early in 2011. Initial production will be concentrated at the Saarlouis (Germany), Michigan (United States) and Chongqing (China) Assembly Plants.

The new Focus will be one of up to 10 unique models to be built from Ford's new C-car platform, which is expected to generate total sales in all regions of two million units annually by 2012. The first of these will be the new Ford C-MAX and Ford Grand C-MAX – unveiled at the 2009 Frankfurt Motor Show – for launch in Europe in the second half of 2010.

"Global customers increasingly want smaller cars with outstanding fuel economy, but without sacrificing any of the style, technology, connectivity and driving quality they demand from larger vehicles," explained Derrick Kuzak, Ford's group vice president of Global Product Development.

"Our next generation of C-cars – led by the exciting new Focus – will clearly show that Ford is ready to meet that challenge," said Kuzak.

Taking kinetic design to the next level

The two models share a sporty and dynamic character, marking the next evolution of Ford's acclaimed kinetic design form language. The kinetic design approach uses bold vehicle designs to capture the feeling of energy in motion, so that cars look like they are moving – even when they are standing still.

With its striking front end, sleek profile, dramatic rising beltline and athletic stance, the new Focus clearly telegraphs the rewarding driving experience that awaits customers when they take to the road.

This dynamic quality is reinforced by the distinctive design of the interior. The new Focus has an extremely modern, cockpit-style interior, with the stylish centre console wrapped around the driver and providing outstanding access to the vehicle's major controls and display panels.

A key element of the interior is the quality of craftsmanship. The cabin's bold and contemporary graphics, the sculptured shape of the soft-touch instrument panel and the choice of superior trim materials all help to give occupants the feeling that they are travelling in a premium-class car.

Unmatched driving quality

Introduced in 1998, the original Ford Focus brought new levels of agility and responsiveness to the C-segment. The all-new Focus plans to raise the benchmark once more, targeting class-leading driving quality that blends outstanding steering precision and road feedback with significantly improved refinement and ride control.

Engineers have updated the innovative suspension concepts from prior models, developing optimised new designs for the "control blade" multilink rear suspension and the semi-isolated front and rear subframes. The chassis design is complemented by a completely new Electric Power Assist Steering system, which has been carefully tuned to deliver pure and precise responses at high speed while remaining light and manoeuvrable for parking.

Intuitive technology enhances convenience and safety

The technology package of the new Focus promises not only clear leadership in the C-segment, but also includes features customers in larger, more premium segments would find surprising. The new technologies have been designed to be simple and highly intuitive to use, while enhancing both convenience and safety for the vehicle occupants including driver connect technology, MyFord, which provides the driver with a state-of-the-art combination of controls and display screens to operate the key vehicle features.

MyFord is complemented by a new generation of Ford's powerful SYNC® connectivity package, which includes a sophisticated voice control system, Bluetooth and satellite navigation, along with connection points for a variety of devices and media players.

Strength and safety

The Focus platform provides an incredibly strong and stiff structure, which not only benefits vehicle dynamics and refinement but also provides the basis for enhanced crash performance. High-strength steels are used extensively in the next-generation Focus body shell. These advanced materials help the structure meet the most stringent crash legislation across world markets, while minimising the vehicle's weight.

Quality and craftsmanship in every detail

The new Focus will make significant strides in reducing cabin noise, promising a quiet cabin environment. This refinement complements the fresh new interior design and higher craftsmanship levels to create a premium feel akin to larger vehicles.

Each component in the vehicle that the customer will touch, see, hear or even smell has been subjected to rigorous analysis to ensure that it will exceed an owner's expectations. Particular attention has been given to the quality of interior trim materials, and the colour matching, gaps, flushness and tolerances where one part meets another.

The new Focus will go on sale in the UK in the first quarter of 2011.

VAUXHALL RETAIL SALES END YEAR ON YET ANOTHER BUMPER MONTH

FOLLOWING a year-on-year retail sales increase of 128 per cent in November, Vauxhall has yet again proved its appeal to user-chooser buyers by posting December retail sales up 54 per cent over the same month in 2008.

Vauxhall posted 6050 retail sales in December, which not only exceeded the 3925 sales from December 2008, when the recession first took hold, but also the 5881 retail sales recorded in December 2007.

This brings to a close what has been an outstanding last quarter for Vauxhall, with a total of 18,884 retail sales recorded, a 53 per cent increase over the same period in the previous year.

"A major contributor to this success has been the new Astra," said Rory Harvey, Vauxhall's Retail Sales Director. "In December 2008 the old model was running sixth in its segment, but a year on the Mk 6 has helped us achieve third place with retail sales boosted from 493 to 1969 units – a 299 per cent improvement. We've also seen Corsa retail sales rise by 37 per cent, with 2857 units registered."

But Vauxhall's success didn't stop there. Retail sales of commercial vehicles grew by 18 per cent year on year, with 554 units registered in December 2009, contributing to a final quarter increase of 27 per cent over the same period in 2008.

"We're looking forward to building on this success in 2010," said Rory. "With new Astra coming on stream after its launch last month, followed by the new Movano joining the commercial vehicle line-up and the new Meriva in June, we hope to deliver plenty more great retail sales stories."

FORD PAYS VAT INCREASE

FORD has announced 2010 new car offers which offset this month's VAT rise.

As VAT returns to 17.5 per cent, Ford is offsetting the 2.5 per cent increase to the end of February.

With the Government's scrap-age incentive scheme also expiring at the end of February 2010, market leader Ford is braced for extra busy winter trading.

Ford's VAT offset applies to all car ranges from compact Ka to seven-seater Galaxy. Even greater discounts remain available for scrappage customers replacing cars at least eight years old. Scrappage incentives of at least £2,000 have attracted an extra 35,500 customers to the blue oval.

Nigel Sharp, Ford Britain managing director, said: "Ford is offering some relief from the cold, tough start to 2010 by delaying the VAT impact on its new car prices to March.

"Combined with the scrappage deals still available for customers with older cars, they present plenty of reasons to visit a Ford dealer this winter."

Snow leads to increased car insurance disputes

USED Car Expert magazine has seen a significant increase in number of enquiries via its website www.UsedCarExpert.co.uk relating to disputes with insurance companies over the value of their car, which have been written off by snow-related accidents. Consumers seem most frustrated when their car was written off because someone else collided with it while it was parked in a street. The icy conditions, and poor visibility are resulting in car accidents and as a result insurance claims.

Editor Matt Tumbridge said, "The Government's grilling policy means lots of side streets are ice rinks and even at slow speeds, sadly cars are going out of control and in urban areas the first thing they hit is another car."

"It is particularly frustrating for car owners who weren't even at the car when the accident happened. In several cases the person responsible left no contact details so the victim is not only having to argue over the value of the car but also losing their no claims bonus and facing the prospect of seeing their premium rise."

On the problem of insurance valuations he said, "Most insurers use a trade publication to value the car and offer the minimum they can get away with.

That is unfair and unrealistic. The car owner has a right to a pay out that will enable them to pay full retail price for a car of equal condition. No one can ever be 100% certain that a car will be reliable when they buy it, so consumers who have lost their car in this way deserve to be able to buy from a dealer where they get a warranty."

Tumbridge's advice for car owners is, "Obtain a price from our website for both the national average and regional average retail price. Then find several cars for sale in the area at dealers and compile it all in a robust explanation of why the insurance company's valuation is not fair. If there are cars available at the price the insurer suggests, include those, highlighting how they are not the same as your car. Usually they will be higher mileage, have less service history or less equipment. Most insurers will see sense when given evidence like that.

PERRY STREET LEAGUE

with HOWARD LARCOMBE

FREEZE UP CAUSES LEAGUE
TO ABANDON ALL GAMES

THE lack of match action gives rise to an opportunity to just take stock of the season so far, as well as recalling some of the League's long, and distinguished history in the form of an A to Z.

A is for Arthur Gage Cup. The Final is played on Sector Lane, home of ex-Perry Street League club Axminster Town who are currently performing in the South-West Peninsula League Division One (East).

The current cup holders are Pymore who beat West-Dorset rivals Charmouth 4-3 on penalties following a thrilling 3-3 draw after extra-time. This trophy is open to teams from Division One with Crewkerne Reserves (five wins) the most successful team in the competition's 59-year history.

B is for Bill Bailey Cup. The current holders are Luso-Chard who secured their First ever Perry Street League silverware with a 2-0 replay victory over Chard Rangers Reserves at Combe.

The replayed final, a rarity in these days of penalty shoot-outs, took place after the initial game at Beaminster ended goal less and referee Lance Turner deemed conditions too dark to take the spot-kicks.

The most successful team in the competitions' 37-year-old history is Powmatic. The defunct Ilminster-based factory team have their name on the trophy in four different guises; Rangers, Ilminster, Sports and Reserves.

C is for Coronation Cup. The show-piece Boxing Day Final threw up a shock this season when South Petherton suffered their biggest defeat for seven years as they were beaten 4-0 by Lyme Regis in an unexpectedly one-sided affair. The win moves Lyme to second in the all-time list of winners with seven triumphs, two behind leaders Merriott Rovers.

D is for Daisy Hutchings. The DH Cup is the Perry Street League's equivalent of the FA cup with teams from four of the five Divisions competing for the trophy.

Second Division Millway Rise produced a major shock by winning the trophy for the first time last season.

Shepton Beauchamp hold the record for most wins with six (in-a-row) in the 80s when teams from the top Division were also included.

E is for Eastlee Park home of Farway United. Farway are the most West-erly of the clubs in League and have remained loyal despite several offers to join the Devon & Exeter League.

The Ground is situated in a deep valley in East Devon and as such does have one or two problems with drainage, but the club, led by stalwart manager Andy Bailey, keeps plugging away and looks well-set for a push to regain their Premier Division status

F is First Avenue home of Millway Rise. Millway are not known as the Slopers without good reason.

The First Avenue incline is probably the steepest in the entire League – many a full-back has stumbled, gasping, back up the hill chasing a teenage substitute winger in the last minute of injury-time!

G is for goals, the more the merrier! This season's current average is 5.12 per game.

H is for Hall. At 74-years young Bob Hall is still doing sterling work as the League's oldest referee. Bob has also donated the Fair play trophy award which is currently held by Pymore.

I is for (Devon, Dorset, Somerset) Intermediate Cup. Lyme Regis have won the Dorset version six times since 1995 with Beaminster chipping-in with one triumph back in 1994.

The closest a current PSL team has come to winning the Devon Cup was back in 2003 when Farway United were beaten in the Final.

The Somerset Intermediate Cup is slightly different in as much as it's the Junior Cup's 'little brother'. Ilminster Town Reserves were the last PSL team to lift the trophy back in 2001-02.

J is for John Lukins. The much-respected reporter/historian and keeper of the PSL archives.

An ex-goalkeeper for, amongst others Merriott Rovers, John has been writing about the League for more than 50-years and was made a life-member back in the Summer – a person this writer has the upmost respect for.

K is for Kenny Hodges Cup. The current holders are FC First who beat Crewkerne Rangers 3-1 in last year's Final in, what appears to have been, their one and only season in the League.

L is for local-derby. Most clubs are contained within quite a small proximity but geographically and historically some of the more stand-out local clashes currently are; Crewkerne Town v Merriott Rovers, Ilminster Colts v Dowlish & Donyatt, Lyme Regis v Charmouth, Thorncombe v Winsham United and South Petherton v Barrington.

A GOOD START: Nick Eckland - leading Chinnocks to Premier?

PROLIFIC: Crewkerne Rangers' Simon Denslow, 25 goals already

LEADING THE WAY: Steve Mockeridge, 687 goals and counting!

M is for Mockeridge – the most prolific goal scorer still currently playing in the League. Steve, 51, is currently turning out for Combe B in Division four where he has scored twice this season to take his tally up to 687.

N is for no joy. Charmouth Reserves have gone 10 matches without a win. Meanwhile White Horse have gone 28 games with no clean sheet.

O is for Oxleaze home of West & Middle Chinnock. The Chinnocks returned to the League after an absence of more than 25 years when Haselbury disbanded on the eve of the 2007-08 season.

Immediate promotion and a place in Division One followed as manager Nick Eckland led his side to runners-up spot behind Champions Chard United.

The following season the Chinnocks consolidated their Division status finishing fourth and picked-up the Division One knock-out Cup in the process.

P is for prolific. Simon Denslow is the League's current top-scorer with 25 for Crewkerne Rangers. Denslow, the holder of the Golden Boot after bagging 44 goals last season, has also struck seven of the League's 74 hat-tricks.

The top individual performance so far has come from Beaminster's Tristan Gale who scored a magnificent seven in the 13-0 annihilation of Charmouth back in September.

Q is for quality. The League still runs it's senior and under 18 pick-of-the-League teams despite disconcerting noises from many outposts of the three county League.

The Under 18s landed the Durnford Cup last season for the first time since 1966.

R is for regular. Ilminster Town Colts and Lyme Regis are the League's most regular goalscorers having found the net at least once in each of their last 30 matches.

S is for South Petherton. Pethy are the current kings of the Perry Street League having finished in the top three in each of the last five seasons – picking up three titles along the way. Beaminster and Lyme Regis are attempting to shift the balance of power back towards West Dorset.

T is for Tommy Tabberer Cup – a knock-out competition currently played for by Division Two teams. Tabberer was a talented Lyme Regis forward who was tragically killed in a bicycle accident in the early 60s.

The current cup holders are Perry Street Reserves who became only the third team to retain the 48-year-old trophy when they beat Uplyme 4-1 at the Davey Fort.

The Mothers' second string and Barrington jointly hold the record for most wins with three apiece.

U is for unbeaten. Farway United Reserves have not been beaten since May 13th – A run stretching back 11 matches.

V is for Jack Venn Cup. This trophy for Division Two teams is currently residing with Perry Street Reserves after they edged past Ilminster Town Colts 3-2 in last season's Cup Final.

Overall top performers are Millway Rise who have lifted the 48-year-old trophy on five occasions, including three times in the last seven seasons.

W is for Waytown Hounds. The Hounds are the League's newest team having made the switch from Sunday League football.

The Netherbury-based team have already made a great start and are challenging for promotion to Division Three. In addition the new boys are in the Semi-Final of the Reg Egton Cup.

X is for ex-teams. FC First, Chard Town Colts are the latest additions to a list that includes amongst others; C&K Wadeford, North Coker, Seaton Town A, Chard Meat, Chaffcombe, Axmouth United and Upottery.

Y is for you! Every player has been on the wrong end of a hammering at some time during their playing careers.

The biggest in recent times was White Horse Reserves' 22-0 demolition of hapless Chard United Reserves back in 2004-05. The Chard team were also beaten 21-0 by Hawkchurch Reserves in the same season.

This term Charmouth hold the dubious record going down 13-0 to Beaminster.

Z is for zero – zero. There have been just two goal less draws so far this season (Forton Rangers v Farway United and Fivehead United v Combe A) – an average of one every 116 games!

WEST DORSET FOOTBALLROUND-UP

HUTCH DENIES RIFT
WITH CHAIRMAN
OVER SIGNINGS

IAN Hutchinson has hit back at suggestions that three players were recently signed without his knowledge.

Rival local newspaper reports claimed the Terras manager knew nothing about the arrivals of loan duo Stephen Read and Scott Bennett, and non-contract signing, Pierre Joseph-Dubois, and had suggested that chairman George Rolles had brought the three players into the View From Stadium behind the manager's back.

But Hutchinson denies this, revealing that Bennett and Joseph-Dubois were his signings.

He said: "Scott and Pierre were both players I wanted and who I went and got. It has been said that I knew nothing about them coming in, but I did. They were my signings.

"It's true that I wasn't keen on bringing Stephen in and his arrival came about due to the chairman's contacts. I told Stephen the score right from the start but, to be fair to the lad, he's knuckled down and shown a great attitude.

"All three lads are good players and I'm pleased they have been added to the squad. Certainly they have all fitted in really well and I can see them playing a big part in our fight for survival."

Hutchinson's future at Weymouth had been in doubt over the Christmas period with rumours that former boss Garry Hall was about to take over.

However, clear the air talks with Rolles has resulted in the manager and his assistant Andy Mason, signing contracts until the end of the season.

"George and I have had a good chat", added Hutchinson. "And I'm pleased we have things sorted. At the end of the day we both want the same thing and that's the team staying up and moving forward beyond that.

"Things were said and rumours were flying, but it's all behind us now and George, Andy and I are all working towards the same goal."

The Terras entertain Chelmsford on Saturday with Hutchinson confident of continuing the decent run of form that has seen them climb to within five points of Conference South safety.

"The weather hasn't helped us in recent days", he admitted. "What with games off and there being no training facilities because of the ice. But the boys have still got in and so we have had sessions on the beach which has been a bit different.

"The attitude and spirit in the camp is amazing with everyone enjoying life and determined to keep the decent run going. It's about being together in this and that includes the players, directors and the supporters who have played such an important part.

"I keep saying it and will say it again. I am convinced we are good enough to get out of the relegation places and we're determined to prove just that. Chelmsford are going well and will be a tough side to play against. But these are the sort of teams we need to be beating if we're to achieve our target."

◆ WEYMOUTH'S fight against relegation from Blue Square South has been boosted by the extension of three loan signings.

The first to agree an extended stay at the View From Stadium was Jamie McGuinness.

The 19-year-old defender has made a big impression since joining from Rushden and Diamonds and boss Ian Hutchinson is delighted to have got the deal done.

The manager said: "Jamie has fitted in really well and has made a big difference to the side.

"Getting him for another month is a real coup and it bodes well as we go into what is a vital stage of the season with the fight against relegation on in force."

Also staying another month is Exeter City youngster Scott Bennett, who scored in the New Year's day win over Dorchester Town.

But, as the manager explained, the defender could be recalled by the Grecians at any time.

Hutchinson explained: "We've got Scott for another month which is great. It looked like he'd be going back to Exeter but they have agreed he can stay.

"There is a clause in the deal that he can return with 24 hours notice but hopefully that won't happen."

One player who won't be going anywhere between now and the end of the season is Stephen Reed.

The ex-Terra is back at the club on loan from Macclesfield with the League Two club having sanctioned his stay until the end of the campaign.

"Stephen has been first class since coming back", added Hutchinson. "And so I'm really pleased he's staying. He's really fitted in well and has had got stuck in and is definitely up for the fight that we are faced with between now and the end of the season."

COUTTS JOINS MAGPIES

FORMER Terras captain James Coutts has joined Dorchester Town on a non-contract basis.

Caretaker manager Ashley Vickers had tried to sign the midfielder earlier in the season after he returned from a five month spell in America, but despite their friendship he decided to join fellow Blue Square South rivals Newport County.

However despite playing several games for them the Welsh side who sit atop the league at present couldn't guarantee paying Coutts following a cut in the budget at Christmas, and he decided to leave.

"We are delighted that James has signed. We are great friends and I have been after him for a while. He is a proven Conference player and will add that little bit of quality and creativity that perhaps we have been lacking recently.

"He has signed non-contract terms at present and we will see how things go. He can get regular games and we will benefit from his experience. He has ambitions to play at a higher level and hopefully this will be a shop window to show what he can do and allow him to move on in the future. In the mean time both parties benefit."

Coutts became Vickers sixth signing in his period as manager, and whilst he is in not under pressure to reduce his squad, Harry Montacute has gone out on a month's loan to Gillingham Town and Ollie Barnes to Clevedon Town.

Jamie Symes' proposed trial with Blackpool this week has been postponed due to the inclement weather. He will now travel to the Championship side on January 31st for a five day trial.

BEES HOPE TO GET BACK ON TRACK

WITH last night's rearranged game with Chard Town postponed, Bridport like every other club in the country is facing a backlog of games, although manager Trevor Senior is not too worried at the moment.

"It's not too horrific at the moment, we just want to get on and play a run of games," said Senior who must now prepare his side for their next fixture on Saturday away to Shepton Mallett who sit just one place and two points above the Bees.

The former Reading striker will be able to call upon the services of Darren Watts who was unavailable last week due to work commitments, and also Simon Evans.

Evans who left Weymouth and signed for Dorchester recently will be available to play for Bridport following agreement between both Senior and Magpies boss Ashley Vickers and Evans.

"Ashley has kindly agreed that Simon can play for us under dual registration unless he needs him. This is great for all parties as it means Simon is getting regular football."

The reserves are hopeful of playing their Dorset Senior Trophy match against Wincanton on Saturday. The second round tie has been postponed several times due to the weather and will take precedent over the league fixture providing the St Mary's pitch has thawed out.

WEYMOUTH CRICKET NEWS

Kiwi Fallon in to help push for title

WEYMOUTH Cricket Club will be pinning their Dorset Premier Division hopes on a Kiwi this summer.

The club have confirmed that New Zealand all-rounder Andrew Fallon will be joining the club, subject to international clearance.

The deal has been done with the help of former Seasiders' overseas star Glen Dawson, who is now living and working back in his homeland.

New Weymouth captain Paul Payne explained: "Andrew is a first class, left arm, opening bowler. He's 28 and so has plenty of experience and bats in the middle order which is just what we need.

"We played against him when we toured New Zealand a couple of seasons ago and he's very talented. He's also a top lad off the park and so I think he's just what we need.

"Having a really good opening bowler at this level is a must. We have seen the merits of that at Weymouth with previous overseas players and hopefully Andrew will help give us that edge."

He added: "The contracts have been signed and Andrew is due over in good time for the start of the season in the spring. He just needs to get his clearance from the authorities but that should be a formality."

One player who may miss those early stages of the campaign is Payne himself.

The ex-Terras goalkeeper is recovering from surgery on his shoulder following a year of injury problems.

He explained: "I went in for the op last week and I think there was far more to do than the surgeon had first expected. There was damage to my tendons and cartilage and so I've had it all fixed, tidied up and repaired.

"Hopefully I'll be okay for the start of the season, but I will miss the warm up games and nets so it may take a few weeks before I'm fully match fit. I don't think I'll ever be able to throw or bowl like I used to, but hopefully this will be an end to the problem because the last year or so has been a nightmare."

With Poole providing Weymouth's opening day opposition in 2010, Payne said it was a case of 'hitting the ground running'.

He added: "Any game would have been tough but Poole is about as tough as it gets for a season's opener. They have been one of the best sides over the past 20 years and we'll really need to be switched on for this one.

"But in some ways playing them early will be an advantage. Certainly we'll quickly know how good we are and what will be needed to challenge this coming summer."

Weymouth begin their indoor training at Portland's Boscowan Centre on January 20th with a session between 6pm and 8pm.

All players old and new are welcome with training being taken by Seasiders' head coach, Sean Fitzgerald.

BOB BUCKLER RACING

Weather makes life difficult for the smaller yards

THE current weather is playing havoc with the whole of the country, and sport is no exception.

With no let up in the immediate future only those football and rugby clubs with enough resources are able to get games on.

Horse racing is particularly susceptible and Haydock Park recently had to abandon one of their prestigious fixtures just two hours before racing despite having spent £32,000 on covers for the course.

Some flat racing is taking place at all weather tracks and indeed Southwell is putting on a special fixture for national hunt flat races (bumpers) today,

In the meantime trainers have to try to keep their horses fit and well and whilst the bigger stables like Paul Nicholls at Ditcheat are able to invest in their own gritter to make a path to the all weather gallops, smaller yards like Bob Buckler's are not so lucky.

He uses Richard Barber's all weather track at Seaborough normally but this is 1 1/2 miles from his yard at Henley.

"The lanes are too snowy and icy either to ride the horses there or even transport them; if the lorry were to slip off the road it could be disastrous," said Buckler.

"We use the walker and have made a track around the stables. We also occasionally get in the fields where there is snow and we know the ground underneath is not cut up, but it's difficult!

"We also have to thaw the pipes around the yard to ensure running water."

With most of the yards bumper horses having raced just before the big freeze, Buckler is not too worried about races for them.

"Southwell would be tricky and possibly dangerous to get to, and anyway with 260 horses declared for the six races it's not certain you would get in.

"You would also want to be certain of having three runners definitely starting to make it economic to go."

Bridport promotion bid on course

IT was an interesting, although not all that pleasant an experience, to stoke up the laptop, plug in to the R.F.U. website and watch both local and national league fixtures fall by the wayside as league games were postponed, owing to frozen pitches.

I did just that last Friday and, by the evening, all sides in my "patch" with the exception of Bridport seconds, who were due to play at Wheatsheaf Cabin Crew, had lost their games to the weather. This fixture was duly postponed on Saturday morning.

This dearth of rugby on which to comment made me scratch my head a little while seeking something about which to write, and I finally decided to publish the current league tables, together with comments that would be, hopefully, pertinent to the chances of the local clubs involved.

While of course recognising their importance, I do not make many references to league tables and positions as a rule, preferring to comment on how well or badly a side is playing. I do find it interesting though to look at league tables at about the season's halfway stage and to try to assess the local participant's chances.

THERE is no doubt about the fact that the DORCHESTER club have the local bragging rights as far as rugby is concerned. Newly promoted into the Southern Counties Division (South) though they were at the end of last season, they proceeded to win their first-half dozen games and get a start to their campaign that most would play for, heading the division around the end of October.

Since then they have been beaten by one or two of the most fancied sides, such as North Dorset and leaders Frome, but they still lie in a very creditable fourth place. I think that they will go on from here to complete a most satisfactory season, while not figuring overmuch in the promotion race.

ALTHOUGH the BRIDPORT first side top the Dorset & Wilts League Division One (South), their camp would not be without its frustrations for they have lost two games that they really should have won.

I watched their match against Warminster where their naivety shone through as they ignored their vastly superior back division, preferring to play the game close to the fringes, an area where their opponents were strong.

I was spared the game at bottom side, Salisbury seconds, where they handed their opponents what was their only win of the season so far. Having said that, I do think that they will gain promotion if they use their very good back division and move the ball away from the point of contact as quickly and as often as possible.

WEYMOUTH are the other local side in the division and are something of an enigma. On the occasions I have watched them, they appear to have the makings of a very useful side, with some pace out wide, a reliable goal kicker and a pack who will win possession.

Subsequent results have not borne out this thought however, and they lie in mid table as a consequence. I think that, for this season anyway, they will, while not getting into a position where they can challenge for promotion themselves, prove capable of upsetting the apple carts of one or two aspiring candidates.

SPORTS NEWS IN BRIEF

NATIONAL HUNT RACING: EXETER, whose attendances have been hit harder than most by bad weather this season, is offering admission discounts for the first time, at two meetings next month, on Wednesday 3rd and Sunday 14th, and on March 9th, 23rd and 31st.

Tickets must be bought in advance through the hotline 0844 579 3005. There is a very special offer for the Valentine's day fixture, which coincides with a blank weekend for point-to-point racing in Devon and Cornwall.

Two grandstand and paddock tickets cost £10. Call the hotline and quote 'eval' to book.

FOOTBALL: WEYMOUTH'S Jake Bryan had the thrill of his life during a family visit to Sheffield recently when the 14-year-old from Westham met his footballing hero Ryan Giggs and a host of other sports stars. Jake, a big Manchester United supporter, caught up with his hero outside the Sheffield Arena which played host to the BBC Sports Personality of the Year show.

Aside from Giggs, he also met cyclist Mark Cavendish, cricketer Andrew Flintoff, Formula 1 world Champion Jenson Button and presenter and ex-tennis player, Sue Barker.

Jake explained: "I was up visiting relatives with my family, and my cousins and I went down to the centre before the show started.

"We saw all sorts of stars going in and it was amazing. Meeting Ryan Giggs was great. He was really friendly and it was fantastic that he actually won the award, but everyone who went in was great. They stopped and chatted, signed autographs and spent time saying hello to people."

BOTH the Dorchester and Bridport second sides compete in the Dorset & Wilts League Division Two (South) and, while the former is a workmanlike outfit that resides in the mid-table and one who will give anyone a game, the latter, although currently a couple of places above its local rivals, has disappointed rather.

It has, only occasionally played the quality rugby that is regularly showed last season and, on occasion, individual commitment has been lacking.

THE Weymouth second side occupy a place in the lower half of this league and give every appearance of enjoying their rugby, which is as it should be.

PREVIEW

Weather permitting, the league programme will resume on Saturday next. BRIDPORT entertain PUDDLETOWN, a side from the lower reaches of their division and, although these opponents will most certainly come and "have a good go", I do not foresee anything other than a very comfortable home win.

It will be a rather different story for DORCHESTER however for they travel to near neighbours SHERBORNE. Dorchester did come out on top against this opposition earlier in the season, but it was not by much and they will have to be at their best if they are to win the return. I think they might just do so, but it will be close.

WEYMOUTH too have a tricky afternoon in prospect, for they visit OAKMEDIANS 2nd who, although they were promoted at last season's end, have made quite a mark in the league this term. I think home advantage will tell in this one.

I think that both the Bridport and Weymouth second sides face rather drab afternoons. The former will certainly have its hands full at Fordingbridge seconds, as with the latter when it entertains the Oakmedians third side.

Dorchester seconds will have an easier task at home to Swanage & Wareham thirds.

West Dorset Swimming

CELEBRITY TV chef Lesley Waters was just one of the VIPs attending West Dorset Swimming Club's last event of the season, their Christmas Open Meet at Bridport, where, as the club's President, she presented the awards to winning swimmers, including a gold to her own daughter nine-year-old Scout Macpherson for the 50m backstroke.

More swimmers than ever before took part in the annual competition with clubs coming from all over the region; visitors included Bridport Barracudas, Dawlish Swimming Club, Millfield SC, Street and District SC, Tornadoes of South Dorset, Ilminster SC and Chard SC.

The competition was declared a resounding success by all with West Dorset taking home a magnificent tally of 73 medals including 14 golds.

The Warriors were delighted to welcome back the Mayor of Bridport Cllr Martin Ray and the Mayoress Cllr Mrs Maggie Ray who formally opened proceedings, while West Dorset District Councillor David Barrett also helped with the presentations.

The accolade of Top Warrior went to 11 year old Harrison Yarnold, who swam an impressive eight events in the competition. The youngster displayed a high standard across the board finishing in the top six in all of his swims.

Yarnold found himself on the top of the podium for the 100m freestyle and finished second in the 100m backstroke, 100m Individual Medley and the 50m freestyle with a third place in the 100m butterfly and 50m backstroke.

Janet Hewitt, head coach of the Dorchester-based outfit commented: "Harrison earned his award as he showed such great consistency across a range of events. He was in a highly competitive field as we had a lot of entries in his age group - I'm very pleased with him."

Meanwhile 14-year-old Frankie Taylor was top female Warrior despite being bottom of her age group.

Taylor swam six events, gaining five seconds and one third place, whilst in the 16-years and over category, Lauren Podger and Keziah Element earned their club a huge amount of points with Podger capturing three firsts and a second, while Element touched first in the 100m backstroke and gained four further top three places.

It was a success story for the older boys too as 16-year-old Jordan Trewartha put on an excellent display finishing first in the 100m butterfly and capturing five further second places. Team mate Peter Thornton, 13, chalked up four straight wins in the butterfly and freestyle events.

For the younger boys there was also a high success rate with nine-year-old William Blackledge proudly winning two seconds and a third place.

Best Boy and Best Girl awards went to brother and sister Tommy Francis and Tarina Francis, both of Chard Swimming Club.

Hewitt added: "I'm delighted with all my swimmers - they did West Dorset proud."

She thanked all the parents who helped organise and run the meet as well as the volunteer officials. Hewitt continued: "The Christmas Open Meet is our principal fundraising event of the year and we've had magnificent support."

"We're lucky that we managed to raise more than we dared hoped for; we'll be ploughing around half of what we raised into equipment for the new pool being built in Dorchester."

"Because the Warriors have committed to raising money for the benefit of the whole community, people are supporting us even though we're in a difficult economic climate."

The club is especially grateful to our loyal sponsors who include Waitrose, Humphries Kirk, The Celtic Kitchen, Dorset Cereals, Sportsgear, Words Etc, The Horse with the Red Umbrella, Cerijan, The Thomas Hardy Leisure Centre, the Dorset County Museum, Ernest G Hart, Beaux Cheveux, Goulds, Great Western Camping and Naturalife. We also had some great sponsorship from Weymouth including from W H Smith, The Crystal Shop, The Bag Shop, the Pound Shop and Asda."

West Dorset swimmers are now training hard for the Dorset County Championships in February.

JULY

◆ JEDD PROPELLED: Uplyme & Lyme Regis' wicket-keeper batsman Jedd Whittington cuts powerfully for four in the home match with Lewdown. The club's first XI had a tough season in the East Devon D Division - managing to avoid relegation on the last day of the season.

Yarnold found himself on the top of the podium for the 100m freestyle and finished second in the 100m backstroke, 100m Individual Medley and the 50m freestyle with a third place in the 100m butterfly and 50m backstroke.

Janet Hewitt, head coach of the Dorchester-based outfit commented: "Harrison earned his award as he showed such great consistency across a range of events. He was in a highly competitive field as we had a lot of entries in his age group - I'm very pleased with him."

Meanwhile 14-year-old Frankie Taylor was top female Warrior despite being bottom of her age group.

Taylor swam six events, gaining five seconds and one third place, whilst in the 16-years and over category, Lauren Podger and Keziah Element earned their club a huge amount of points with Podger capturing three firsts and a second, while Element touched first in the 100m backstroke and gained four further top three places.

It was a success story for the older boys too as 16-year-old Jordan Trewartha put on an excellent display finishing first in the 100m butterfly and capturing five further second places. Team mate Peter Thornton, 13, chalked up four straight wins in the butterfly and freestyle events.

For the younger boys there was also a high success rate with nine-year-old William Blackledge proudly winning two seconds and a third place.

Best Boy and Best Girl awards went to brother and sister Tommy Francis and Tarina Francis, both of Chard Swimming Club.

Hewitt added: "I'm delighted with all my swimmers - they did West Dorset proud."

She thanked all the parents who helped organise and run the meet as well as the volunteer officials. Hewitt continued: "The Christmas Open Meet is our principal fundraising event of the year and we've had magnificent support."

"We're lucky that we managed to raise more than we dared hoped for; we'll be ploughing around half of what we raised into equipment for the new pool being built in Dorchester."

"Because the Warriors have committed to raising money for the benefit of the whole community, people are supporting us even though we're in a difficult economic climate."

The club is especially grateful to our loyal sponsors who include Waitrose, Humphries Kirk, The Celtic Kitchen, Dorset Cereals, Sportsgear, Words Etc, The Horse with the Red Umbrella, Cerijan, The Thomas Hardy Leisure Centre, the Dorset County Museum, Ernest G Hart, Beaux Cheveux, Goulds, Great Western Camping and Naturalife. We also had some great sponsorship from Weymouth including from W H Smith, The Crystal Shop, The Bag Shop, the Pound Shop and Asda."

West Dorset swimmers are now training hard for the Dorset County Championships in February.

Weymouth 2nd's face a tough start after promotion to Division 1 last season. They start with a trip to Shroton before hosting last year's runners-up Bournemouth.

Meanwhile Beaminster who are desperately short of players for the coming season following a torrid time in the lower reaches last campaign welcome Suttoners to the Memorial Playing Fields on the opening day. Their visitors were relegated from the Premier Division last year so will provide tough opposition. It gets no better the following week when they travel to Sherborne, a notoriously competitive side.

Following relegation, Dorchester 2nds start life in Division Two with a home match against Blandford 2nds before travelling to Hamworthy Recreation.

Martinstown pipped Cattistock for the Division Four title in the last game of the season, and the two clash in Division Three in their second match of this campaign on May 8th in North Dorset.

Symene host promoted Charlton Down on the opening day May 2nd and then welcome Lytchett Minster to Symondsburry the following week, whilst Portland RT 2nds entertain Winton Sports 2nds before travelling to promoted Puddletown the following week.

◆ Beaminster skipper Ross Baker has put out a call for more players. Both Beaminster sides suffered from a lack of consistency last season due to unavailability of a number of players and Baker is looking for cricketers who can play on a regular basis.

"We could fill the two teams easily with the players that are signed on, but for a variety of reasons many were not able to play regularly.

Unfortunately, being so far west of the county we are at a disadvantage geographically, whereas most of our games are in the east in the Poole or Bournemouth area and so some find it difficult to make the long journey."

The club start nets at Beaminster School next Tuesday (19th) starting at 7pm and would welcome any new players. They should either turn up at nets or can contact Ross on 0781389762.

◆ NO JOE: Bridport will miss the guile of Joe Ashton when they embark on their 2010 campaign. The spinner was forced to retire through injury last season
